Community Chest Drive's Goal This Fall $28,300; Tops '59 Goal By $1,500

Increasing the amounts to be given to local agencies by $1,500 over last year, the Gettysburg Community Chest directors Monday evening set a goal of $28,300 for the 1960 Community Chest campaign. Last fall's goal was $26,800.

Adopting recommendations of its Social Planning Committee, the board approved these grants for 1961 to be paid out of the proceeds of this fall's campaign.

Red Cross $8,500; Adams County Free Library, $4,400; Boy Scouts, $3,800; YWCA, $3,500; Girl Scouts, $3,300; and Civic Nursing Association, $1,500. Those grants total $25,000 to which has been added $3,000 for campaign expenses and contingencies, and $300 for the Pennsylvania United Fund and the USO.

Grants to the Red Cross and the Civic Nurse Association are the same as last year. Each of the four other agencies asked for and received an increase, it was brought out in discussion by the directors.

Had Asked $1,300 More

The $4,400 in the 1961 budget for the library is $400 more than was given last year but $600 less than the $5,000 the library had asked. The Boy Scout grant is up $300 over last year but $200 short of the sum asked by the Boy Scout district organization. The YWCA grant is $500 more than last year but $500 short of the amount asked for. The Girl Scouts' allotment is an increase of $300 over last year. The Red Cross and Civic Nurse group did not ask increases.

To have given all agencies the full amount they sought would have sent the total campaign goal up to $29,600, it was pointed out.

Fox Is Chairman

Campaign chairman Paul B. Fox reported on preparations being made for the fall campaign and after the board meeting conferred with Chest officers and former campaign chairmen about plans for the canvass this fall.

The social planning committee report, submitted in writing by its chairman, Attorney Franklin R. Bigham, was read by William A. Lentz, a former Chester president who is a member of Bigham's committee.

Dr. Seymour B. Dunn, Chest president this year, presided at the meeting which was held at the Student Union Building on the college campus.

Headquarters At YWCA

Campaign headquarters this year will be established at the YWCA building, the board was told.

The social planning committee report recommended that balance sheets showing all assets and liabilities and giving a prospectus of proposed services be submitted by member organizations with their requests for funds in the future.

There was a suggestion that the social planning committee return to the practice of calling in representatives of member organizations for conferences in connection with their fund requests. No action was taken on the matter.

The Chest treasurer's report showed a current balance of $3,500 in the Chest treasury with about $1,150 yet payable on pledges from the 1959 fall drive. A total of $1,203 on 56 pledges to last fall's drive remains to be paid. There is also $296 yet to be paid on pledges from the drive in the fall of 1958.

No date has been set for the next meeting of the board.

Barbara Powers Has Final Visit With Husband In Jail

BY STANLEY JOHNSON
MOSCOW (AP)—Barbara Powers put on a bright yellow dress today and had a farewell talk with her imprisoned husband, U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers.

They met at the Soviet Supreme Court building. A little earlier, his parents, Oliver W. and Ida Ford Powers, spent a last sad hour with their son who has been sentenced to 10 years' detention for espionage.

Neither parents nor wife were able to speak with newsman when they emerged. They were all obviously overcome with emotion. When Barbara came out she shielded her face with her hand. Her mother, Mrs. Monteen Brown of Milledgeville, Ga., ran interference for her as she dashed to a limousine for the drive back to the hotel.

Plagues Her Husband

This was the first time since her arrival in Moscow that Barbara had worn a bright color. She did so today because her husband likes her in yellow.

Powers sent word to his father to "please bring money" to their last meeting, so that the flier can buy cigarettes and other small items in jail. Powers also said he could use a watch. His own watch was forfeited to the Soviet state treasury under the terms of his sentence along with other valuables he had when captured.

"My watch only cost $49.50," the elder Powers told newsman, "but it's a good watch. It cannot compare with the one he had, but I am mighty proud to give it to him."

Barbara Powers also was to see her husband, but after his parents visited him. Barbara waited anxiously for a reply to a three-page, handwritten letter she dispatched to Nikita Khrushchev Monday, asking the Soviet premier to see her so she could appeal for clemency for her husband.

Khrushchev is vacationing at Yalta, on the Black Sea, and there is no word when he will be back in Moscow. In the letter Barbara begged Khrushchev to see her as soon as possible. She said she would fly to Yalta if necessary.

Bolt Hits Phone Wire, Burns Child

Kathy Dayhoff, aged 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theron Dayhoff, R. 5, was treated at the Warner Hospital Monday for multiple minor burns of the back and left arm sustained in an unusual accident.

The mishap occurred during Monday afternoon's thunderstorm. Kathy was lying on a couch with the telephone placed just above her on the window sill. A bolt of lightning struck the telephone wires which in turn struck the young child.

The doctors reported that it was fortunate that there was not enough electricity to cause serious damage.

TOMATO CROP MAY BE BEST IN MANY YEARS

Tomato operations at the C. H. Musselman Company's Biglerville plant are already in full production even though the season was about a week late in starting. Spurred on by continuous days of sunshine, the harvest season has come on with a rush and promises to be one of the best in recent years.

Tomatoes for the two-shift operation at Biglerville are being supplied by growers from Adams, York and Lancaster Counties with part of the supply being delivered to the company's receiving station at Red Lion. Purchased under grades determined by the federal state inspection service, the tomatoes are priced at $35 per ton for U. S. No. 1's and $20 per ton for U. S. No. 2's delivered at Biglerville.

Early season observations indicate that the variety known as KC135, introduced experimentally several years ago and planted almost exclusively by Musselman growers this year, is producing tomatoes with the outstanding characteristics for which it was selected. More resistant to sunburn than most varieties, KC135 has a tough skin that reduces cracking and subsequent decay to a minimum.

Another positive factor in the new variety is its known tendency to bear earlier in the season with the peak of production coming at the end of August and early September, thus reducing the exposure to late September frosts and cool weather which adversely affect color and quality.

These characteristics plus the high degree of red color are resulting in the production of a high quality juice at the Musselman plant, according to the reports from the quality control department. Tomato juice is packed in a variety of tin sizes with tomato puree as the byproduct.

USDA crop reporting service indicates a tomato acreage of 12,700 in Pennsylvania for 1960 compared to 13,000 last year. The total U. S. acreage is set at 279,800 acres, a decrease of 4.3% over 1959.

With ideal weather conditions prevailing, there is optimism among growers that yields this year will match 1958 when the average in Pennsylvania reached 12.5 tons. In 1959 the average was 10.1 tons per acre. As a cash crop, tomatoes continue to rank high among commodities grown by Pennsylvania farmers.

Hammarkjold Presses For Congo Advisory Council As Lamumba Backs Down In UN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold pressed ahead today with plans for a committee of nations to advise on operation of the 15,000-man force serving under the U. N. banner in the Congo.

Hammarskjold's task in the Congo was eased—for the time being at least—by Premier Patrice Lumumba's withdrawal of demands for U. N. aid to whip secessionist Katanga into line.

Hammarskjold had decided his position would be less vulnerable if he formed the advisory group, a procedure he found successful in directing the U. N. Emergency Force in Palestine. The advisers will be from the nations whose soldiers are in the U. N. Congo Command.

DIES SUDDENLY AT ADAMS CO. NOVELTY PLANT

Anthony John Pino, 43, Mountaintop, N. J., in Gettysburg with his wife and family on a vacation trip, was stricken at 10:20 o'clock this morning with a heart attack as he completed purchase of a table in the basement of the Adams County Novelty Co. plant at the rear of 103 Carlisle St.

Mr. Pino was talking with a company representative about arrangements for shipment of a table he had selected. His wife and two children were waiting for him in their auto outside the building. The New Jersey man complained of feeling ill and collapsed. A physician and the ambulance were called but death occurred before their arrival.

Dr. C. G. Crist, Adams County coroner, investigated and said death was due to a coronary occlusion.

The body was turned over to the Bender Funeral Home which is in charge of arrangements.

Mr. Pino was a solicitor in interstate transportation for the Novick Transportation Company. He was born in Brooklyn, and was the son of Mrs. Mary DeAngelo Pino, Springfield, Conn., and the late Cosmo Pino. His wife is the former Helen Marie Hulteen.

Survivors include his mother, his wife and their two children, Martha Ann and Joseph Thomas. A brother and four sisters, all of whom reside in New York and Connecticut, also survive.

Hammarkjold Presses For Congo Advisory Council As Lamumba Backs Down In UN

Sunday endorsed the secretary-general's refusal to let the U. N. force become involved in the Congo's internal political troubles.

It was a pointed rejection of Lumumba's demand that U. N. forces be used to put the central Congo government in control of rich Katanga province, whose Premier Moise Tshombe is leading a move to make the Congo a loosely organized federation of semiautonomous provinces.

Changes Tune

Lumumba changed his tune after a three-hour conference with the Soviet ambassador to the Congo, Mikhail D. Yakovlev.

The government "sees no reason to press its demands," said a spokesman for Lumumba, adding a seemingly face-saving comment that "the government is satisfied that Belgian soldiers will be withdrawn" and "considers the atmosphere good."

41 Out "For Cause"

The Commonwealth used three of its 20 peremptory challenges Monday. Of the 66 prospective jurors who appeared on the witness stand for questioning Monday, 41 were dismissed because of "cause." Causes included fixed opinions, opinions against capital punishment, and opinions that they could not give the death penalty if all of the evidence for conviction were circumstantial. The question of whether they would impose the death penalty based on circumstantial evidence seemed to give the prospective jurymen the most difficulty. Examples of circumstantial evidence were cited. A favorite example used by Assistant Montgomery County District Attorney Vincent A. Cirillo was: "You hear glass breaking. You see a man running by you carrying a suitcase. You go around the corner and see a broken store window, and a man standing by it saying 'someone just broke my window and stole a suitcase.' That is circumstantial evidence."

Among jurors excused from serving on the murder trial for cause Monday afternoon were: Ruth Alwine, New Oxford R. 2; Bernice L. Wenschoff, East Berlin R. 2; Mrs. Helen Haehnlen, 320 N. Stratton St.; Ruth K. ASKS POWER TO REFUSE SUGAR FOR TRUJILLO

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today asked Congress for legislation giving him power to take away from the Dominican Republic an allotment of 322,000 tons of sugar for the U.S. market. The President's action followed up condemnation of the Dominican regime of strong man Rafael L. Trujillo by the foreign ministers of the American Republics meeting at San Jose, Costa Rica. When Congress in July authorized Eisenhower to reduce Cuba's sugar allotment by 720,000 tons it provided that 322,000 tons of this reduction go to the Dominican Republic.

Citing the action of the foreign ministers in condemning Dominican acts of aggression against Venezuela and calling for a break in diplomatic relations with the Dominican Republic, Eisenhower said: "In view of the foregoing considerations, the government should have discretion to purchase elsewhere the quantity apportioned to the Dominican Republic pursuant to the July amendment to the Sugar Act."

"I therefore request legislation providing that amounts which would be purchased in the Dominican Republic pursuant to the July amendment need not be purchased there but may be purchased from any foreign countries without regard to allocation."

LIKE MAY VETO MEDICAL BILL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans dropped a hint today that President Eisenhower might veto any medical care plan tied into the Social Security program, if that is what Congress enacts.

It came as the Senate pressed toward a decision on this proposal, backed by Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee.

There was an agreement for a vote by 6 p. m. It was expected to be very close.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois talked of a veto after GOP congressional leaders had their regular weekly meeting with Eisenhower.

Dirksen didn't quote the President. But on the basis of Eisenhower's previous statements, Dirksen said, he might very conceivably disapprove a plan tying medical care for the aged into the Social Security system.

On the other hand, Dirksen said, Eisenhower probably would approve the Javits proposal. He said it contains many of the features Eisenhower has advocated including federal-state grants to help the aged meet medical bills.

Warrior Coaches Pleased With Team Workouts; 45 Seek Posts; 7 Lettermen

The Gettysburg High School Warriors begin their first full week of pre-season football drills on Monday and from the looks of things the prospects seem brighter than originally expected.

Gettysburg has 45 candidates on hand and from this group are seven lettermen from last season. The positions hit hardest through graduation were fullback, quarterback and tackle. The Warriors lost Bob Furney, Hardy Nichols, who was injured early in the season, and Dick Scott.

Line coaches Carl Schoenborn and John Gregor feel that they have an excellent promising candidate for the tackle slot in Paul Plank, a 180-pound sophomore. Another sophomore capable of playing his position well is center Ed Zeigler.

All Positions Open

Head Coach Don Young will form his team around several but also stated that no position mainstays from last year's squad, is nailed down thus far. The Warriors will be counting on the services of Don Waddell at end, John Holoka guard, Jim McClellan halfback, Dale Smith fullback and Tom Duane and Bill Miller, quarterbacks. McClellan has been transferred from end to halfback to bolster that slot.

Several candidates for the backfield include Senior Ron Frew at quarterback and Ron Mickle, Jack Bucher, Dick Utz and Eddie Gastley aiming for a halfback slot. Young said, "We have been quite pleased with the speed of our backs. They are running much better than at this point last season." Young has also been pleased with the way practice sessions have been going. The squad has absorbed its material on schedule although Monday's sudden showers chased the team into the gym for light drills.

A few of the newer faces which have appeared on the scene, but did not play last year, may add strength where needed. Roger Ecker, a tall slender cager, is trying his hand at end and should be just the target the quarterbacks have been looking for at the other end of their passes.

Promising Centers

Ken Hull, absent last season, is back for a shot at the center position. Besides Zeigler and Hull, Rodney Fair and Maynard Stuckey have been showing promise at center. Holoka will receive competition at guard from Bill Kint and Bob Bream.

Eddie Hofe, 190 pounds, Larry Eckert, a junior, and Larry Helwig have been pressing Plank at tackle. Earl Kump has been showing strong possibilities at one of the ends.

The Warriors will attempt to throw a balanced offensive attack at their opponents and will incorporate a flexible defense depending on the opposition's offense.

"Overall we have more depth and a little more size in the line," Young said. "We also have a little better team attitude than last year." He said, "A lot of these fellows are so new that it's hard to tell right now."

Young stated that the majority of his candidates are sophomores and that some who have come out for football this season were not out last year. Young said, "We have picked up about 14 more players than we had at the beginning of last season."

To many observers, this may be a strong indication that the interest at Gettysburg High School is now beginning its upward climb. The 1960 varsity schedule:

September 9, Westminster, away; 16, Biglerville, home; 23, Hershey, away; 30, Chambersburg, home. October 7, Hanover, home; 14, Mechanicsburg, away; 21, Littlestown, away; 28, Waynesboro, home. November 4, Carlisle, away.

TALBERT AND MULLOY SEEK DOUBLES TITLE

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Ageless wonders Bill Talbert and Gardner Mulloy, optimistic about the U.S. tennis youth, teamed again today to seek their fifth men's title in the National Doubles Championships at Longwood. Talbert, 41, and Mulloy, 46, beat young Californians Dale Junta of San Leandro and John Lesch of Coronado 6-1, 6-2, 6-1 Monday in their first round test. The losers are both navy lieutenants (jg).

"The margin of edge held by the Australians is so small it could disappear overnight," Mulloy said of the international competition with an emphasis on the Davis Cup. "Our juniors are terrific and I believe happy days are just around the corner for Uncle Sam."

Time And Experience
"Time and experience are all our top players need to put America back on top," Mulloy added. "Bill and I may be able to speed their progress by resuming our partnership."

The last time Talbert and Mulloy appeared here as a tandem they lost in the 1953 finals to Mervyn Rose and Rex Hartwig of Australia. The Talbert-Mulloy combine won here in 1942, 1945, 1946 and 1948 and twice were paired for the Davis Cup doubles.

While defending champions Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson remain idle, Australians Rod Laver and Bob Mark eliminated the Venezuelan Davis Cup pair of Marcos Gambus and Ivo Pimental, 6-4, 8-6, 6-4 Monday. Laver and Mark are the second seeded foreigners.

Top seeded Americans, Earl Buchholz of St. Louis and Chuck McKinley of St. Ann, Mo., ousted Malcolm Booth and Mike Woolven of England, 6-4, 6-4, 8-6.

Postpone Decisions

On 1964 Olympics

ROME (AP) — The International Olympic Committee today put off until next year its decision on Japan's request to stage the 1964 Olympics in the spring.

Japanese Olympic officials proposed to the committee that the games be held in late May and early June, instead of mid-July. They said July would be too hot and humid and that autumn was typhoon time.

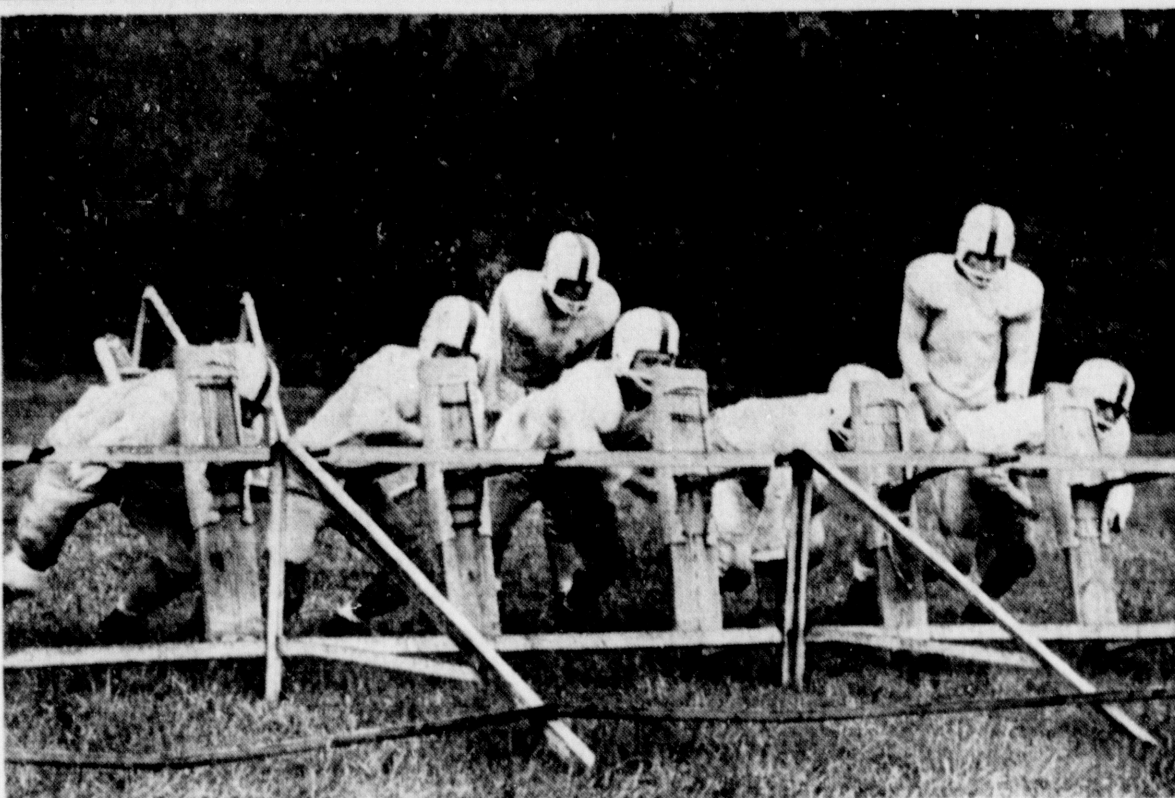

IOC members said they wanted more time to study the proposal and agreed to take up the matter again next year in a meeting at Athens.

TO STUDY DATA

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Public Utility Commission has received additional data from the Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania in its investigation of the company's earnings.

A PUC spokesman said the information, submitted Monday, will be studied to determine whether Bell's present rates are justified.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Former actress Mae Murray, who suffered a stroke Aug. 10, is showing daily improvement in the Motion Picture Country House and Hospital at nearby Woodland Hills. A spokesman said physicians had termed her condition good.

Warrior linemen get a change to "dig in" before storm interrupts Monday's drills on the high school practice field. Coach Young said his line is showing marked improvement and two promising sophomores are making their bid for a starting role before the season opens on September 9.

It's "chow time" in the Warrior Camp as the Gettysburg High School football team takes a noon break at the school cafeteria. The Warriors just completed a half day of grueling drills Monday, preparing for their season's opener against Westminster on September 9 on the opponent's field. Supervising the noon meal are Head Coach Don Young (background), and line coach Carl Schoenborn (standing with back to camera). (Times Photo)

RECORD ENTRY LIST IS READY FOR GOLF PLAY

NEW YORK (AP) — More than a dozen golfers who have represented the United States in the top international amateur competition, the Walker Cup matches against Britain, will be just guys trying to qualify for a spot in the National Amateur Championship this year.

With a record entry list of 1,757 for the championship, to be played at the St. Louis Country Club Sept. 12-17, nearly everybody who gets into the tournament has to earn his place through the 36-hole sectional qualifying rounds Aug. 29-30. That includes some players whose names have become famous in international competition.

Only 19 entrants are exempt from sectional qualifying and they include seven amateur champions of foreign countries who will be coming here for the second world team championship a couple of weeks later.

All former amateur champions, ranging from spirited 70-year-old Chick Evans to the 20-year-old defender Jack Nicklaus, are exempt from sectional qualifying. The others are Charlie Coe and Harvie Ward, both two-time winners, and Dick Chapman, who has won both the U. S. and British amateur championships.

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania's Athletic Commission did better financially during the last biennium than in the previous two-year fiscal period, its biennial report shows.

The commission said this week-end that it took in $71,077 from licenses issued during the period. That compared with earnings of $53,965 during the previous biennium.

Accountants Plan Annual Golf Play

Gettysburg and Biglerville members of York Chapter, National Association of Accountants, are expected to participate in the annual quadrangular golf tournament to be held at the Outdoor Country Club, York, Friday. York chapter will act as host to members of Lancaster, Harrisburg and Reading chapters.

Major trophies to be awarded are the Molly Screw Anchor trophy to the chapter carding the five lowest gross scores; the new Thompson Products, Inc., trophy to the chapter turning in the five low net scores (Calloway), and the friendship trophy, presented by L. L. Flemming of Lancaster chapter, to be awarded the chapter represented by the low medalist. Possession of all trophies is one year, except that any trophy can be retired by any third win by a chapter. Individual winners will receive small trophies for permanent possession.

Tee-off time for the event is between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. A dinner and social get-together will follow the tournament.

GIRL, 15, LOSES ON 19TH HOLE

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Tomboyish Ann Baker, a 15-year-old from Maryville, Tenn., has proved that younger players may make their mark in the National Women's Amateur Golf Tournament which headed into the second round today.

Miss Baker carried Anne Quast, 1958 National champion, to the 19th hole Monday before losing the match on a costly errant pitch shot. Miss Quast chipped up close for a conceded par to win the extra hole first round match 1-up as Miss Baker missed a 12 footer.

Twenty girls under 18 started out in the 60th women's championship after competition in the junior tournament and some of them were still in position to sideline their elders.

Miss Quast was one of six members of the Curtis Cup team to engage in second round matches over the tough par 35-36-71, 6,150-yard Tulsa Country Club course.

Joining Miss Quast in the second round were other Curtis Cup players Mrs. Ann Casey Johnson, Mason City, Iowa; defending champion Barbara McIntire, Lake Park, Fla.; Judy Eller of Old Hickory, Tenn.; Joanne Gunderson, Kirkland, Wash., and Judy Bell, Wichita, Kan., who drew a first round rye.

TRIBE FANS PIN BLAME ON FRANK LANE

By HARRY JONES
Cleveland Plain Dealer
Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — The tendency among disappointed Cleveland Indians fans is to pin the blame on General Manager Frank Lane. Maybe Frank is at fault—and then again, maybe he isn't.

The Indians, in second place 1½ games behind league-leading New York on July 16, have tumbled to fifth place, 11 games out. During that span, the team has lost 25 of 36 games.

Before a man is condemned he usually is given the right to defend himself. Even a lynching party allows a prisoner a chance to speak his mind.

Some Questions
So, these questions were put to Lane Monday in Boston.

Q. Frank, what's wrong with the Indians?

A. Before we begin this, let me say one thing. I never alibi. I simply try to speak the truth as I see it. Right now, just about everything is the matter with the Indians. If I were to single out the one thing that hurt us most I'd have to say it was (shortstop) Woodie Held's injury.

Here was the one man on the club we could ill afford to lose. What ever chance we had to win the pennant—and in my mind it was a good chance—it went out the window when he got hurt.

Q. So what else is wrong with the Indians?

A. I heard Bob Feller on the air the other day and he said he was disappointed in the failure of our young pitchers to improve. So am I. We depended quite a lot on (Gary) Bell and (Jim) Grant and they just haven't come through.

BOYLE TAKES ON PAVEMENT PLATO GUISE

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Curbstone comments of a Pavement Plato: Are you grown up? If you really are, you are a rarity. Perhaps you belong in the Smithsonian Institution.

One of the most shocking discoveries that can come to a person in middle age—if he is honest with himself—is the realization that he has changed little from the person he was as a child.

Has Consolation
The only thing that consoles him, as he peers more closely at his middle-aged neighbors, is the discovery that they too aren't really grown up—they are merely enlarged children.

When young, we yearn desperately to be grown up, figuring that mere size and time will magically make us able to solve all our problems and get everything we want from life. Well, it doesn't often work out that way.

Grow Physically
As adults we are indeed bigger and older. But we have grown up only physically; emotionally we are still back in kindergarten—and there most of us stubbornly stay most of our days.

What is the most outstanding characteristic of the ordinary child, even the most angelic? Surely it is his determination to have his own way, to bend the whole vast world he was born into to his own imperious will.

Frustrated, he howls and shakes his tiny fists in anger.

Is Show-off
He is an outrageous capitalist and show-off from the moment he takes his first step. He wants to own everything that catches his eye, and he wants to be admired for everything he does.

If he loses at a game and weeps and is told he should be "a good sport," he asks practically, "Why?" His theory is that if the other kids won't play his way, he'll pick up his marbles and go home. He tends, by human nature, to be vain, arrogant and full of self-pity.

Life is full of one disappointment after another as it curbs his behavior and forces him to be more social. But inwardly his desires rage and riot as strong as ever.

Confident Youth
As a youth he is confident that when he is an adult he will at last be free to have his own way and live his own life. He is optimistically certain that the petty restrictions will end, that he will find the perfect friend, meet and marry the perfect wife, seek and land the perfect job.

We find as the years roll on that our friends are as pitted with faults as we are, our wives are little better than those of our neighbors, and the perfect job is always beyond our reach.

True maturity consists in making the best of what life brings us, in realizing there is always a necessary compromise between dream and reality. If you can do that, you have truly grown up.

But who among us wants to be this mature? Secretly, in our heart of hearts, we still want what we can't have. We remain vain, selfish, arrogant, envious and full of self-pity.

We learn to camouflage our actions because we have to. But now and again the rebel breaks through, and you see grownup people behaving as childish as they really are.

Then we say in surprise, "Why, he acts like he's in his second childhood." This isn't accurate. The truth is most of us never have a second childhood because we never leave the first one.

The distance between the earth and the sun varies as much as three million miles.

Public Taste Keeps Step With Changes In Income

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Changing tastes are keeping step today with changing incomes. And Americans are handling their take-home pay differently than a little while back. This is affecting the whole economy as 1960 wears on.

Many are holding back for a bit on buying big ticket items to the dismay of their manufacturers and of such basic industries as steel. Many are spending more on goods that don't last very long to the delight of those eager to replace them.

Some Americans are even saving a bit more of their larger incomes, perhaps because they aren't too sure the economy is going to go once it gets off dead center.

Liking For New
But the American liking for the new is as evident as ever. And businessmen who have come out with new products, or better or more snappy versions of the old have been reaping the profits.

This goes for those selling the cameras around every other tourist's neck or making the compact cars that were the belles of the 1960 ball.

The smaller cars have had more than just novelty appeal. Their lower prices and operation costs have left more for growing families to spend on the goods and activities that mark a new way of life—a slowly changing standard of living.

Americans are spending more of their money for things that make life pleasanter or cut into labor time at home or the office.

Pleasure Purchases
There are more Americans able to do this. One big trend of the postwar years has been the growth of the middle income class. More families have more to spend than did their parents.

At first this spurred the big ticket industries as newcomers to the middle-income group bought cars and homes and all the appliances that made life easier.

Married Younger
They also married younger and had larger families. But as these families grew up, the amount that is spent for food—and better food, easier to prepare—clothing, medical care, education is increasing. More has been going into recreation and travel. Less is left just now for buying new and bigger gadgets.

Total spending has kept on rising. But each year more is spent for prepared or almost prepared foods, for all the small or big gadgets that cut housekeeping to a minimum of work and time. The family room with its TV set, radio, table tennis, has become the bugaboo of the entertainment industry, as people stay home and save their money for something else that they crave more just now.

SEES TIRED OLD THEMES AHEAD FOR TV IN FALL

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—If the fall season of television fulfills its late August promise, many of its faithful viewers will soon be approaching our sets with the joyous anticipation usually reserved for looking at a neighbor's movies of his vacation trip.

After three weeks of visiting sets, talking with producers and performers, and swimming through seas of enthusiastic adjectives in press releases, it seems obvious to me that television during the coming season will consist largely of a lot of tired old themes and stories dressed up with new, young faces.

The networks, having overworked the "special" show last season until it was no longer special, are relaxing this year. A few big names will occasionally put on a one-night show—Danny Kaye, Harry Belafonte, Fred Astaire and some others. But most of our viewing will consist of old filmed stuff remodeled slightly.

Of course, I haven't seen any of next season's shows yet. Although television has lots of people hired to tell the public how marvelous are the wonders in store for them, they're mighty careful not to let anyone get an advance peek at the product. Maybe some of these oft-told tales will gain something in the new telling. I have my doubts, but one might just as well be an optimist.

Let's Look At The Record

"KELLY BLUE"
Old Cowhand's Painting And Memories
Reveal Dignity In Adversity

By JIM DAN HILL, Ph.D.
President, Wisconsin State College, Superior

"KELLY BLUE" is not the mental state of a sad Irishman. It could be, and is, the name of a book. Basically, the term denotes the blend of pigments for the bright blue base upon which an increasingly famous, modern American artist painted his primitive, folksy scenes of America's horse and buggy frontier.

And, of course, the name of the artist was Kelly—Harold Osman Kelly. He was a hired hand, mule skinner, studhorse wrangler and jack handler by choice. Belatedly he came a famous artist through an inner compulsion toward beauty that had kept him at peace with a world which had often treated him badly.

HIS NAME was about all that was Irish in Kelly's heritage. His parents were Pennsylvania Presbyterians. His ancestors were mostly German, with a splash of Swiss.

Young Harold O. Kelly, like his father, early became a railroad shop mechanic at Scottsdale, Pennsylvania. A trip to Arizona, for his younger brother's health, transitioned him to a bronco rider, cattle driver, teamster, horse handler, itinerant laborer, harvest hand, share-cropper, and putative, but never operative, land speculator.

During these horseback, covered wagon and buggy borne peregrinations throughout the Southwest, Kansas, Nebraska, Wyoming and Colorado, he developed an almost total recall memory by writing many letters, keeping occasional diaries, often providing detail with marginal sketches. Incidentally, he learned more of wagon yards, the rustic grandfathers of the modern motels, than Duncan Hines ever knew of places to eat and sleep.

Kelly developed a marvelously bucolic, regional, and original command of words and acquired a phenomenal art skill. His power with pencil and colors, both water and oils, was to bring him wide acclaim in a brief artistic career that began at age 63. An art professor, Charles Stewart, at Howard Payne College, "discovered" him. He died at Blanket, Texas, in 1956, at age 72.

FROM KELLY'S sudden fame as an artist emerged the fact that he also had a literary style as well as a salty personality. The Guggenheim Foundation commissioned William Weber Johnson, a Time Magazine staff man, to tape numerous interviews, sift his writings, study his paintings, create a book.

The result is "Kelly Blue" (Doubleday, $3.95), with a brilliantly written foreword by the famous Western artist and novelist, Tom Lea. Mr. Johnson has made such lavish use of the artist's own written and taped words that it is essentially an autobiography.

KELLY WAS STRIPPED of his few possessions and left a broken, dust-choked failure by the same climatic and economic forces that created the sour, sordid, obscene Oakie in Steinbeck's "Grapes of Wrath." Except for the soul that God has given all men and the artificial but well-contrived literary compassion dispensed by Steinbeck, the Oakies contributed nothing to the much discussed dignity of man.

Not so with H. O. Kelly. Throughout adversity that would have made Oakies of smaller men, Kelly maintained the irrepressible soul, the dauntless spirit, the warmth for his fellow man and the love for truth and beauty without some of which there is but little if any dignity in man. Certainly, nothing that ever happened could have made an Oakie of H. O. Kelly.

Few old time, ex-teamsters, who had graded sun baked, dusty, cactus studded, reptile infested, unirrigated Arizona land, could recall those labors with: "Little red lizards with a salmon-pink belly, and a dark blue one with a sky-blue belly, and Gila monsters and two kinds of rattlesnakes, sidewinders and old diamondbacks. It was a beautiful country and you could see for miles."

THOUGH A LOVER of the West, and his recorded words reveal a storehouse of horse and cowboy lore, Kelly's folk scenes of busy little figures, his neat beans, matched livestock, and prim, village houses are often conspicuously Pennsylvania Dutch in inspiration and appearance. From boyhood, the man apparently never forgot anything that struck him as beautiful; never saw anything that was completely ugly.

Tom Lea, in his foreword, has quite accurately characterized Mr. Johnson's book as "the real Kelly: funny but not too funny; sad but not too sad; hopeful but a little desperate too . . . a nineteenth-century man adrift in the twentieth; a man who repaid the world with love rather than bitterness."

A worthy tribute to a great human being and a brilliant little book.

Cape Canaveral may soon be noted for something besides missiles. What is believed to be the world's largest scallop bed has been discovered off shore.

SCOTT DENIES MUD-SLINGING AT KENNEDY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) has denied he was mud-slinging when he criticized Sen. John F. Kennedy's family for outbidding the State Department on financing transportation for 250 African students.

Scott said he had no personal criticism of the Democratic presidential nominee, but "if the Kennedy people are using the family wealth for purposes which they should not use without reporting it, that is a perfectly proper thing to discuss."

Remarks On TV

Kennedy, speaking in Des Moines, Iowa, Sunday, was asked about this and other statements Scott made on the television program College News Conference. Scott had said the Kennedy family fortune already has been used in an attempt to buy votes for Kennedy, and that estimates of Kennedy's spending ranged from 1.5 to 7 million dollars.

Kennedy said that Scott is a member of the Republican "truth squad" but "may well have lost his membership today."

Kennedy also said he hopes that there won't be a trip down the "old road of unfair tactics and untrue charges."

Renewed Charge

On the television program Sunday, Scott renewed the charge he made in the Senate last week that Kennedy family foundation paid $100,000 for the Africans' transportation to colleges here, thus outbidding the State Department. Scott implied this was a politically motivated move to gain African Negro votes. The offer was made, Scott said, only after learning the State Department had refused to furnish the funds.

Kennedy said it was stipulated the foundation would remain anonymous. Scott said he had requested an investigation because Kennedy foundation money could be used in a similar way to win the votes of other groups.

WORLD BRIEFS
CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Word has been received here that John Kale, 32, secretary of the National party of Uganda, was killed last week in a plane crash en route to Moscow for the trial of Francis Gary Powers.

The Asian-African secretariat said it had learned from Moscow that the Soviet Ilyushin 18 transport plane carrying the exiled leader of the Uganda independence movement and others to the trial caught fire and crashed.

LONDON (AP)—There have been bugs in the little Suffolk village of Wetheringsett for 250 years. But now the Buggs of Wetheringsett (pop. 812) will be known as Bowdens.

Farmer Charles Edward Buggs was tired of his "annoying" surname and over the weekend gave public notice he's changing it.

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—Mourning bells tolled in nearly 1,000 Roman Catholic churches throughout Ceylon Sunday in protest against the government decision to take over schools run by religious bodies with financial aid from the state.

MANILA (AP)—Lt. Wallace F. Doolittle of Pratt, Kan., and Ens. John Antoine Provost of Wellsboro, Pa., were killed in the crash of a Navy jet bomber Saturday. A helicopter rescued two enlisted crewmen—David W. Walters of Big Lake, Minn., and Roy D. Howington of Amarillo, Tex.—after the A3D Skywarrior plunged into the sea off the Subic Bay Naval Base.

LONDON (AP)—Five thousand London dockworkers voted overwhelmingly Monday to end their three-day wildcat strike.

They said they will start work Tuesday—but will strike again unless their union starts immediate negotiation for more money. The strike had tied up more than 50 ships in London docks.

A Bit Of History About Early Settlers

By B. F. M. MacPHERSON

ONCE AGAIN—THE LOW DUTCH
The account of the Coleman family, of Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, is concluded at this time.

Immediately to the rear of the chapel of old Saint James' Episcopal Church at Lancaster, Pa., in the burial ground, are the table tombs that mark the grave sites of the family of Robert Coleman, the ironmaster. Last week the inscriptions from these tombs, with but one exception, were included in this column. The last remaining grave marker in the Coleman plot bears the following inscription:

7. "Within this tomb are enshrined the remains of William Coleman, born at Salford Forge, in the vicinity of Norristown, Penna., on the 28th Feb'y, 1776. Died at the residence of his brother, in the City of Philadelphia, on the 18th of August, 1837. Of sterling integrity and modest demeanor; devoted to his affection to his family and friends; unostentatious in his benevolence; liberal in his contributions to works of public improvement and to charitable objects; he won the esteem and regard of the community in which he lived and his memory will long be cherished with affectionate recollection by those to whom his many virtues endeared him. The eldest son of a large family, he now reposes amidst kindred dust. Thou hast all seasons for thine own, Oh! Death."

Incident At Ball

Note: The eldest son of Robert and Ann (Old) Coleman and brother of the unfortunate Ann Caroline and Sarah Hand Coleman, who, unlike the majority of his brothers and sisters lived to "a ripe old age" — he was 61 years old at the time of his death.

The story has often been told and retold of an incident that took place at President James Buchanan's inaugural ball, which was held on the evening of the day he took the oath of office as President of the United States. One of Ann Coleman's brothers was present on this occasion and was of the company who came to congratulate the new President and shake his hand. Buchanan, on recognizing Mr. Coleman, put his hands behind his back and said simply, "I will not shake hands with a murderer." According to Harriet Lane Johnson, Buchanan's niece and hostess, James Buchanan felt that one of Ann Coleman's brothers, as well as her father, had a hand in the maze of events that led to her broken engagement and to her death.

William Coleman has been unjustly identified as being the guilty party but, as he had been dead some 25 years at the time the above incident took place, some mistake was undoubtedly made. Ann Coleman had other brothers still living at that time therefore it must be assumed that one of them was involved. This story is too well authenticated to be "all smoke and no fire" — so without a doubt something of that sort did happen, but William Coleman was not the brother in question.

Dutch Burial Ground

At this time the scene of events for this column returns to the "Upper" Low Dutch Burial Ground of the Conewago. The last article on this subject had "to do" with the family of Samuel Osborne, soldier of the American Revolution. Mary, the daughter of Samuel and Margaret Osborne, was married to William Vanarsdalen and they, too, are buried in this graveyard.

1. "In memory of Mary, wife of William Van Arsdal, died July 17, 1861, aged 56 years, 1 month and 8 days."

Note: Mary Osborne, the daughter of Samuel Osborne, soldier of the American Revolution, and Margaret, his wife, was the wife of William Van Arsdal (or Vanarsdalen). In this case the husband also was the son of a Revolutionary soldier.

The right side is the right side to get out of a car. The left (or driver's) side leads to trouble and danger. Left-side doors can open right into oncoming traffic. They can be torn off their hinges and pull you with them into the street. Give Dad (and Mother) this tip, too: move over and get out the right side every time. It may be a bit uncomfortable and clothes-mussing, but it's the only right way.

2. "In memory of William Van Arsdal, died February 6, 1858, aged 60 years, 8 months, and 16 days."

Note: William Van Arsdal was the husband of Mary Osborne, the daughter of Samuel and Margaret Osborne, who are buried in the same graveyard.

3. "In memory of Sarah, daughter of William and M. Van Arsdal, died June 30, 1861, aged 34 years, 1 month, and 20 days."

2. Wednesday, March 14, 1827— "Married, Thursday, March 8, 1827, by the Rev. L. L. Hinch, Mr. Ralph Fickes, of Reading Township, this County, to Miss Anne Osborne, daughter of Mr. Samuel Osborne, of Strabane Township, this County."

Note: Another daughter of Samuel Osborne, soldier of the American Revolution, and Margaret, his wife, who married into the Fickes family. Anne (Osborne) Fickes was also living at the time her father's will was written and is mentioned therein.

The notes on the Osborne family will be continued in this column next week.

CIA Head Warns VFW Goals Of Reds Have Not Changed

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—The head of America's super-spy outfit doesn't expect the Soviets to make war on the United States any time soon. But he does expect them to give this country trouble in other ways for a long time.

Allen W. Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, made a plea Monday night for more courses in American schools on Communist theory and practice.

Talking to the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Detroit, Dulles refused to believe any soft talk from Russia's Premier Nikita Khrushchev whose intentions, he said, are the same as those of Lenin and Stalin: world communism.

Different Technique

The only difference between Khrushchev and his predecessors, Dulles said, is a difference in technique in trying to reach the same goal.

"During the years immediately ahead it seems more likely that the immediate danger we will be facing, and on a worldwide basis, will be Communist political, economic and subversive action and penetration; not a hot or nuclear war," Dulles said.

He listed seven points he said are basic elements of Khrushchev's policy:

Military Buildups

1. Build up Soviet military might based on ballistic missiles which would give him an effective weapon for direct attack on the United States.

2. Build up Soviet industry at the same time—to satisfy some of the needs of the Russian people—but still devote a greater share of it to military aims than the United States is likely to do with its industry.

3. Support all elements of extreme, rabid nationalism in Asia, Africa and Latin America. Dulles said: "He is working for chaos in countries from Cuba to the Congo, and chaos breeds communism."

Economic Aid

4. Aim economic and technical aid at certain critical countries in Asia, Africa and Latin America where "the Communists believe they can make the most headway."

5. Keep in high gear Russia's worldwide subversive apparatus in countries from "Cuba to Central Africa and to Southeast Asia and indeed throughout the world."

6. Build Russia's formidable military weapons in secrecy and even exploit spy scarts to preserve that secrecy while refusing any meaningful inspection system which would make disarmament workable.

7. Propaganda. Dulles said Khrushchev is directing "the greatest propaganda machine the world has ever known."

Thus the immediate future, as Dulles sees it, will bring not war but tremendous Soviet efforts at Communist subversion all over the world for years to come.

HERTER WILL WARN LATIN NATIONS TODAY

By STANFORD BRADSHAW

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP)—Secretary of State Christian A. Herter will warn the Latin American nations today that they—not the United States—are most menaced by communism's attempt to infiltrate the Western Hemisphere via Cuba.

Herter, laying down a hard U.S. line toward Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime, was expected to urge the foreign ministers' conference of the Organization of American States to condemn Red Chinese-Soviet threats to the hemisphere. It was not known whether he would back Argentina's plan for a special conference to chart plans for a democratic counter-offensive.

Herter's speech late this afternoon follows a new U.S. memorandum to the conference accusing Cuba of training spies and guerrillas to spread Communist revolution throughout the hemisphere.

Chilled Mediation Hopes

The tough U.S. stand chilled hopes of some Latin American delegates that they could arrange some procedure to mediate differences between the United States and Fidel Castro's regime.

The nine-page U.S. memorandum to the OAS Peace Committee supplemented an earlier 78-page report. Besides charging that

CADDIES UNDER 14 CAN CAUSE PROSECUTIONS

HARRISBURG (AP)—If the kid lugging your golf clubs around the course is under 14 years of age, the club manager is liable for prosecution under Pennsylvania's child labor laws.

Miss Elizabeth S. Johnson, director of the Bureau of Women and Children in the Labor and Industry Department, made that clear today after warnings had been issued to some clubs by district inspectors.

Miss Johnson said nothing more than a seasonal reminder had been issued from state headquarters earlier this summer, but it was possible some of the inspectors were just getting around to notifying club owners.

Other Regulations

"We do the best we can to enforce the law with the means and international brigades are being trained in Cuba to carry the Red message to other Latin American nations, the new memo noted recent Cuban moves to suppress "the remaining vestige of individual liberty in Cuba—religious freedom."

Cuba's OAS ambassador, Carlos Lechuga, termed the report "totally false." Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa was expected to demand sanctions against the United States, charging economic aggression against Cuba.

Assess Prospects

Argentina's proposal called for another conference within 90 days to prepare a draft treaty of methods "for prevention and eradication of the Communist movement in the hemisphere." Initial reaction to the proposal was cool.

The United States was considered likely to get a good response to its request for a strong stand against Soviet infiltration in view of the U.S. agreement to take political and economic sanctions against the Trujillo regime in the Dominican Republic.

There was some apprehension, however, that if too much pressure was placed on Cuba, she might take her charges against the United States back before the U.N. Security Council. Cuba sought U.N. condemnation of the United States in July, but the council referred the complaint over to the OAS.

Oscar Hammerstein II Dies Today Of Cancer

DOYLESTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Oscar Hammerstein II, whose magic lyrics have brought laughter and tears to Americans for 40 years, died of stomach cancer today at the age of 65.

His death at his beloved country home of Highland Farms, far from the glitter of Broadway, ended one of the brightest careers in theatrical history.

The big gentle man who penned the words of such songs as "O! Man River," "Who?" "The Last Time I Saw Paris," "When I Grow Too Old to Dream," "Only Make Believe," "Some Enchanted Evening" and "June Is Bustin' Out All Over," died shortly after midnight.

Scored Many Hits

His lyrical gift helped fashion a brilliant string of musical shows that have become popular classics, from "Rose Marie," "The Desert Song," and "Show Boat," down through "Oklahoma," "South Pacific," "The King and I," and currently the Broadway smash "The Sound of Music."

Since his collaboration with composer Richard Rodgers in 1942, the names of the two men have become a theatrical tradition.

Asked once what he deemed the most profound change in modern musical theater, song writer Cole Porter, a musical giant in his own right, replied: "Rodgers and Hammerstein."

"Oklahoma Hailed" When the curtain rose on that show in March 1943, it took personnel we have at our disposal, Miss Johnson said.

Under the child labor laws, designed to regulate the employment of all persons under the age of 18, there are no exemptions, except those applying to farm labor and domestic service.

As for caddies, Miss Johnson said that if they worked out of a clubhouse where liquor is sold, the 18-year-old minimum age would apply.

She explained that regulations require employers to obtain a certificate of age when hiring people from 14 to 18 years of age. Youngsters are prohibited from working at all as caddies if they are less than 14.

In all cases of violations, Miss Johnson added, the employer is held responsible.

Broadway by storm. Critics and drama historians alike hailed it as a turning point in theater, a fresh integrated production that kicked traditional musicals into the discard.

"Oklahoma!" ran on Broadway for five years and nine weeks—an all-time record for a musical. It became something of a folklore itself and inspired a new school of musical shows.

In Coma Since Monday

While "Oklahoma!" ran its successful course, Rodgers and Hammerstein turned their hand to other shows.

By 1960 eight more musicals had been created, nearly all of them major triumphs, including "Carousel," "Allegro," "Me and Juliet," "Pipe Dream," and "Flower Drum Song."

Hammerstein continued to work although plagued by the growing pains of cancer. Early this month those close to him knew he could not last much longer.

At his bedside when he died at 12:20 a.m. were a nurse and two doctors. In a room nearby were his wife, Dorothy, his daughter, Mrs. Philip Mathias, and his sons, William and James. He had been in a coma since Monday evening.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Mrs. H. G. Capers Jr., of Philadelphia has regained the Pennsylvania Women's Amateur golf title after a six-year wait.

Mrs. Capers, who first won the crown in 1954, captured the 1960 championship Saturday with a 2 and 1 victory over Mrs. Paul Klinefelter of Philadelphia, the defending titlist.

MALI PREMIER APPEALS TO U. N. FOR HELP

By ULYS YATES

PARIS (AP)—Modibo Keita, premier of the Mali Federation, has appealed for immediate U.N. help to block secession of the West African state of Senegal from the infant federation.

The appeal, sent through President Sekou Toure of Guinea, accused France of failing to provide troops to preserve the union of Senegal and the former French Sudan. Keita, who is also premier of Sudan, called for an emergency meeting of the Security Council.

Word of Keita's appeal was relayed by a Soviet correspondent in Guinea and broadcast by Moscow radio. U.N. headquarters in New York said that up to Monday night it had not received any direct request for U.N. action.

Under Arrest

Premier Mamadou Dia of Senegal, who was also vice premier of the Mali Federation, proclaimed Senegal's independence from the federation Friday after a struggle for power with Keita.

The latter, seeking to consolidate his power before the presidential election, had dismissed Dia from the vice premiership. But with Dakar the capital of both the federation and Senegal, police and troops in the port city were loyal to the Senegal premier. Keita was put under house arrest and then sent off to the neighboring Sudan by train.

Dia was expected in Paris today to talk with President Charles de Gaulle about the rupture. De

INVITES NEWSMEN

HARRISBURG (AP)—Newsmen have been invited by Gov. Lawrence to tour the Norristown and Mayview State Hospitals.

The Norristown tour will be on Aug. 30 and the Mayview (Allegheny County) tour will be Aug. 31.

The largest lake in Delaware is man-made Lum's Pond, only 200 acres in area.

Gaulle also invited Keita, but there was no word he would come.

2 Minutes Overtime Stirs Boston Strike

BOSTON (AP)—A public transportation strike, forcing close to 700,000 persons to find new ways to get to business, spread confusion and inconvenience throughout the metropolitan area today.

The shutdown—arising from union resentment over suspension of a veteran driver who refused to work overtime—deprived 14 communities of their principal rapid transit, street car and bus service. Taxis and car pools, helped by some increases of railroad commuter trains, took up the burden.

Increase By 100,000

Police, warned by traffic engineers that the city's normal influx of 250,000 automobiles would be increased by possibly 100,000 more, got set for a massive tangle.

Efforts to settle the dispute—the Metropolitan Transit Authority said it involved no more than two minutes overtime—went on through the night in Gov. Foster Furcolo's office at the State House.

The fact that Madrid is the highest capital in Europe led to the popular Spanish expression: "From the provinces to Madrid and from Madrid to the sky."

PIPELINERS OF ENERGY

Economy of Pipeline Transportation

Pipelines in the United States are delivering natural gas, crude oil and refined oil products over long distances at surprisingly low costs.

As an example: one gallon of gasoline can be transported by Texas Eastern's Little Big Inch products pipeline from Houston to Chicago—a distance of 1125 miles—for one cent.

The economy of pipeline transportation is one of the major reasons why natural gas and petroleum products are now supplying over half of the country's energy requirements, and why demand for this form of energy is expected almost to double during the next 20 years.

Texas Eastern's role as a pipeliner of energy is constantly being enlarged through the expansion of its 2000-mile Little Big Inch products pipeline system and its 6300-mile natural gas pipeline system.

TAX RULING IS FIRE COMPANY CRISIS MAKER

EXTON, Pa. (AP)—Can a volunteer fire company, to raise money for its expenses, build and operate a roller skating rink without paying federal taxes?

No, says the United States government.

Yes, says the fire company, which today refused to pay any income and amusement taxes—and promises a legal battle as far as its resources will take it.

Crucial Issue

The issue is crucial to all non-profit organizations, community-sponsored or not, that participate in other activities to raise funds, such as bingo, card parties and dances.

The controversy involves the West Whiteland Fire Co. of Exton, a tiny community of several hundred persons in Chester County, not far from Coatesville in 1953. Two years later it built the $125,000 rink, selling $75,000 in bonds and getting a $50,000 mortgage for financing.

The rink has proved a most profitable venture, attracting as many as 4,000 persons weekly.

Harold E. Martin, operator of the Exton Lodge and board chairman of the fire company, says that while the organization operated, actually, as a private club—
"enjoys a modicum of success financially it has not been unmindful of its responsibility to the community." He adds:

"We now provide the only local police protection in the township."

"We cooperate with the Chester County civil defense. They provide funds and clothing for people who are less fortunate as well as temporary shelter in case of a home fire."

No Salaries

"No one receives any salary or benefits of any kind. Firemen, police and others give freely of their time and effort in making Exton
a fine place to live."

Martin said the U. S. Department of Revenue last December said that operation of the skating rink "was not social welfare, and that we were in business to make money."

Martin doesn't deny that, but he says the money is made by a non-profit organization and used entirely for fire and police protection—"absolutely nothing else."

Plaque winners at the Adams County 4-H roundup held Friday at the South Mountain Fairgrounds, near Arendtsville, were, left to right: Dairy showmanship, Robert Smith, York Springs; vegetable exhibit, James Thomas, South Mountain; insect exhibit, Andrew Zettle, Gettysburg R. 3; dairy fitting, Judy Fissel, Biglerville; flower identification, Martha Hikes, York Springs R. 2; and vegetable judging, Edna Jane Coble, Aspers.

Tax Exempt

Up to that time the fire company held a federal tax exemption—it is exempt also from state taxes—on the ground that it was a nonprofit group.

A spokesman for the Internal Revenue district office in Philadelphia says the rink's operation is "a nonrelated business and not germane to the operation of the fire company, thus its profits, if any, are taxable. . . . It is not primarily engaged in promoting good for the general welfare."

The federal ruling which Martin feels is applicable to West Whiteland states specifically: "Civic leagues or organization not organized for a profit but operated exclusively for the promotion of social welfare are exempt."

Appeal For Funds

Martin says he has appealed for contributions from other volunteer fire companies and non-profit groups throughout the Keystone State "because if our position is upheld all organizations similar to ours will be benefited."

"If the final decision should be unfavorable," he points out, "dire consequences may result, not only for us but for many volunteer fire companies who depend upon community projects for support."

"It would mean that we would have to liquidate our community activity in order to meet the outstanding indebtedness of bonds and mortgage together with the taxes demanded by the department of revenue."
